Disastnous Funs Last Night.—Burning of Hobbe Bros. Machine Shojis.—About 11 o'clock last night the wild alarum bells rang out an alarm of fire, and although the streets but an instant before were comparatively deserted, in a moment, they were crowded with a fostling throng pushing towards Centre Wheeling, where a great light could be seen in the vicinity of Hobbs Bros. machine shops, on Water street, near Twenty-first. The whole neighborhood seemed to be illuminated by the burning building, and a strong wind which prevailed carried the sparks directly toward the most crowded portion of the city, threatening a general conflagration.

The alarm came from the Guards Hose House, and was promptly repeated by the big bell on the Capitol, but from some cause the steamers did, not come to time as quickly as might have been reasonably expected. A vexatious delay ensued, and inc the meantime the Hobbs' machine shops were being rapidly devoured by the flames. The fire had first been noticed in the northeast corner of this buildings, where the engine room was located, and fanned by a spanking breeze the flames spread so rapidly that within a few moments the two buildings were wrapped in a sheet of flame.

Inside of twenty minutes the buildings were in ashes, and of the machinery; patterns and stock, nothing whatever was saved. The foundry building, adjoining, was slightly damaged, and a row of tenement houses on Water street, owned by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, were savaral times in flames, but each time the "free-laddies," who were now hard at work, and doing good service, succeeded in stopping to oing good service, succeeded in stopping ne progress of the devouring element. the wood-work on the east side of these mildings was badly charred by the whistled last night, while creaking signboards and banging shutters made the symphony. Pleasant enough it was to sit by a bright fire in a cozy room, or to lie between warm sheets on a soft bed, but Heaven pity those who were compelled to shiver amidst the blasts of Boreas, with came from the knowledge that the comfort came from the knowledge that the condort of a warm fireside was not to be their's, though the night should last till eternity. It is just such weather as this, and the more so as it just precedes the joyous season of the holidays, that should cause those who are blessed with comfort to remember in gratitude their own prosperity and extend a helping hand to those to whom the world has not been so kind. There have been colder nights than last night, but none more wintry, dreary and cheerless.

How the wind howled and shricked and

A sad accident occurred vesterday about 12 o'clock. Michael Mulen, ared 11 years, son of Barney Mullen, and a lad about 12 o crock. Memer Mulien, agea 11 years, son of Barney Mullen, and a lad of allout the same age, named Frank Blencoe, were playing at the house of Michael Lacy, a brother-in-law to young Mullen, when young Blencoe took hold of a loaded shot-gun standing in the corner of the room, and in his maneuvres with it, not knowing it was loaded, it was discharged, the contents striking young Mullen just above the left eye. Dr. Capehart was instily summoned and pronounced it a fatal wound. He lingered in great agony until three o'clock yesterday, when death relieved him of his suffering. His funeral will take place to-morrow morning. We understand that some of our leading citizens are making urgent appeals to the executive committee of the Choral Union in behalf of a union of all the vocal talent.
